The Exhibition of Young Writers was opened on March 8, 2016, at 4 p.m. in National Széchényi Library. At the exhibition, where talented young writers and poets are presented through their works, portraits, CVs, publication lists, visitors also have an opportunity to look at the original manuscripts of young authors. The exhibition will be open until April 12, 2016 when the exhibited lyric and prose works will be offered for sale at an on-the-spot auction.

The aim of the exhibition and auction is to pave the way for civil patronage, in order to create a new source of funding for the generation of young writers.

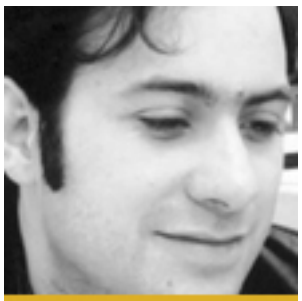

The material of the exhibition, to be open for over a month, will be auctioned in National Széchényi Library on April 12, at 4 p.m. The auction will be managed by antiquarian Endre Szőnyi. Total revenues from the auction will go directly to the authors.
