Taiwanese afternoon in Budapest

2016/10/15
2016/09/28

Do you know the world of books before the invention of paper? Have you seen medieval engravings from the Far East? Come with us and discover cultural specialties of a remote world. You are invited to a tea afternoon, related to an exhibition of the National Central Library of Taiwan, to be held in NSZL on October 15, 2016.

[1]The world of Taiwan is not unknown for visitors of National Széchényi Library. As part of the cooperation agreement signed by NSZL and the National Central Library of Taiwan [2] in spring 2015, a grandiose exhibition will arrive in Budapest in October, 2016. The exhibition will present books known as part of the high culture of Taiwan.

Opening ceremony of the exhibition will start at 2 p.m. on Saturday October 15, 2016. Visitors are cordially invited to a Taiwanese afternoon related to the event.

In addition to looking at the exhibited specialties, visitors can also listen to a scientific lecture delivered (in English) by Professor Max K. W. Huan. Those interested in the topic will be offered tea, interactive activities, music played by music academy students arriving from Taiwan, and some other small surprises.

The afternoon will be closed by a culinary tour of authentic Taiwanese cuisine.
