During the discussions, participants reviewed the National Széchényi Library’s recently completed and planned U.S.-related projects for 2026. The visit continued with a tour of the library building, focusing on documents related to the United States. In the Apponyi Room, Béla Nóvé, a staff member of the OSZK Department of Research and Special Collections, presented a selection of books related to the history of the United States.

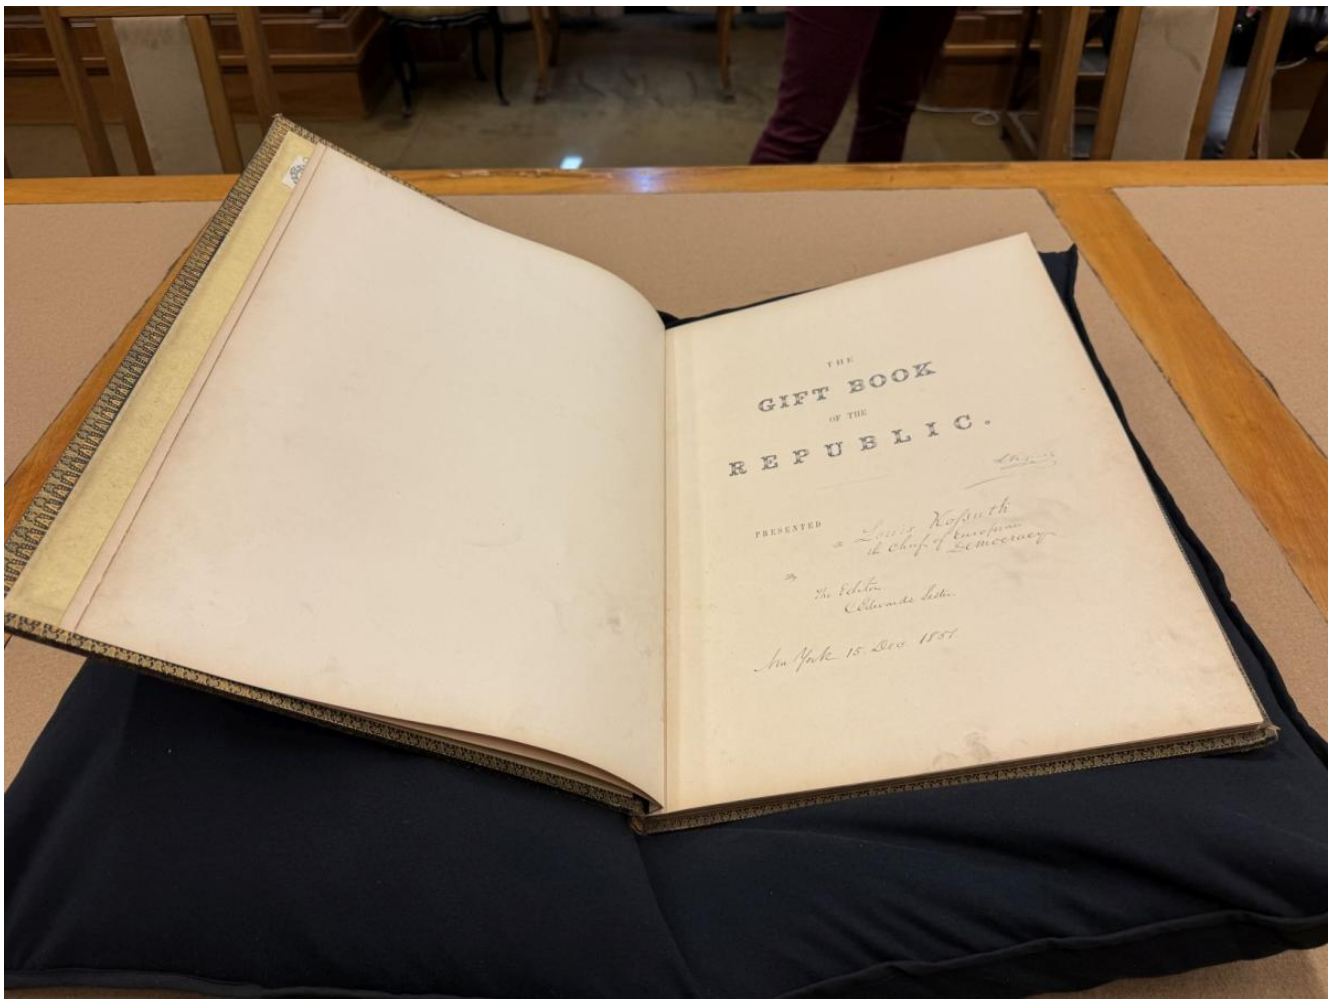

At the end of the program, the delegation visited the library’s digitalization centre, where Gábor Klinger, Head of Department, introduced its operation, equipment, and results, and also presented the ongoing work.
